

HENRI TEXIER

Henri Texier's career is one of the most emblematic and richest of jazz musicians. A symbol of an uninhibited generation eager for experimentation, the double bass player has been the inexhaustible catalyst for musical adventures, playing a decisive role both in his ability to bring together creative energies and to encourage emerging musicians.

He is one of the rare French musicians who have collaborated with a large number of American artists, and not the least: Joe LOVANO, John SCOFIELD, John ABERCROMBIE, Bill FRISELL, Steve SWALLOW, Kenny WHEELER ...

He now performs mostly in trio with Sébastien Texier on saxophone and Gautier Garrigue on drums. Together they recorded a new album end of October 2021. It will be released on January 28th 2022, named "Heteroklite Lockdown".

In 2022 his autobiography will also be published.
